FREMONT A CATHOLIC.

It would seem, by the following extracts from the Charleston Courier, that, after all, Fremont has been, if he is not now, a Catholic, notwithstanding the denials made by his supporters !

We are sickened and disgusted with the miserable quib blings and pairry subterfuges of the partisan press, blindly and servilely committed to Fremont. "We have nothing to do with the details of electioneering

"We have nothing to do with the details of electioneering expedients, nor do we care particularly what may be the regions or irreligious belief of the renegade adventurer who is now receiving the plaudits of the free-love, and free-land, and free-money socialists and radicals of northern States. The qualifications of John C. Fremont for the presidency would be neither increased, diminished, nor affected in any wise, by any solution of the questions which have afforded prolific themes for the extraord and irresponsible assertions of a licentious press. We have, however, a regard for our duties as journalists, and for our lovalty to truth and to good. ties as journalists, and for our loyalty to truth and to good, manly, candid citizenship, and for these considerations we

"Gentlemen, however, have been drawn into denials which we feel assured would not have been ventured on under fuller information; and it is evident that Fremont has pressured confidently on the indifference, forbearance, or fall ure in memory of all who knew him in this city. The best feelings, instincts, and convictions of all caim and conscientious citizens, whether Protestants or Catholics, have been out-raged by the mode and details of the discussion on this point raged by the mode and details of the discussion on this point as conducted by partisan presses; the feelings of all south-erners have been as rudely shocked, and we therefore de-part so far from our usual rule as to notice this pretended is-

Fremont did avow and adopt the Catbolic belief, and the fact is so well known that many parties here have been astonished at the put forth, and this without reference to the considerations that have induced any to believe such depicts recognition

BETTER AND BETTER.

The Memphis Appeal, of the 26th ultimo, publishes the official vote of the late election held in Arkansas for governor. That paper says:

"By reference to the official vote of this State, it will be seen that the democratic majority is near thirteen thousand!

This will do pretty well for a small State, and will cause the emocracy everywhere to expect 'big things' of her next fovember. Just before the election took place the Eagle and Enquirer was of the opinion that the State was sure for Fillmore if Governor Conway was not re-elected by more than twenty-five hundred votes. As it is, we think she ought to give a double vote for Buchanan and Breckinridge. "There is a propriety in never crowing too soon, and we would advise our opponents, who seem so delighted over the results on steamboats, railroads, &c., hereafter to wait until they hear from the 'wool-hat boys.'"

FURTHER COMMENTS OF THE PRESS. The Boston Times congratulates the country upon the defeat of the revolutionists as follows:

"Rightly may men of all parties rejoice at this most happy result of the first struggle for and against the constitution. Rightly may democrats rejoice at the heroic firmness of their noble representatives in the Senate and in the House of Representatives. Rightly may the people rejoice at the determination of the Executive in recalling Congress, and invoking every patriotic impulse to save the country from so dire a calamity as the disbandment of the army, the suspension of all works of national defence and country from so dire a calamity as the disbandment of the army, the suspension of all works of national defence, and the consequent paralyzing detriment to the public interests at home and abroad. We are now sailing again in smooth waters, with favorable and gentle gales, and the staunch old ship, the CONSTITUTION—glory to it forever and ever!—has its canvas spread before the favoring wind, its UNION colors flying gaily at its mast-bead, its threatening port-holes opened, its matches lighted, all ready to fire into and sink all pirate craft that may appear before it. Glory to the good old ship. When manned by patriots, she is, and ever will be, unconquered and unconquerable."

The Evening Argus of the 2d instant says:

"The passage of a clean army-appropriation bill, after a long and ardous struggle against the fanatical and disorganizing majority in the House, is a source of general congratulation, as it is a noble triumph for the national democracy. It exposes, in all their deformity and repulsiveness, the designs of the abolition hordes, who, for mere self-ish and partitisan purposes, would sacrifice the peace and prosperity of the country, and even our glorious Union, giving us instead only strife, bloodshed, and civil war in Kansas, and would spread the curse throughout the whole country by disbanding the army, and leaving both our coast defences and western frontier without protection. But though the country has fortunately escaped the dire consequences which would have attended the disbandment of the army, the ultimate designs of the abolition party are still sufficiently formidable. The Northern Budget says:

The increasing indignation of the country at the course "The increasing indignation of the country at the course of the House on the army bill, at last compelled the factionists to give way, and allow the measure to become a law. It is said that letters had been received from Greeley and others, begging the republicans to change their tactics as their course was ruining them at home. In one letter Greeley says: 'For God's sake let the bill pass!' And assurances were given the democrats that the bill should pass: Campbell, the whig leader, with the manifest intention of 'letting the thing slide,' reported the bill again with a raced proviso, and this the democrats helped send to the Senate that that body might reduce it to a blank. The Senate did this, and when the other branch concurred, the Herald's despatch states many of the republicans fairly danced with joy at their getting out of the dilemma in which they had placed themselves through their treasonable folly."

Although his arrival was not expected, the fact of his being at the depot flew like wild-fire, and, during the few minutes he remained, he was surrounded by scores of our citsens, who were eager to pay their respects, and have the honor of taking the great stateman by the hand.

MR. SUMNER IN THE PENNSYLVANIA MOUNTAINS The martyr to free Kansas, free speech, and free niggers, as we stated in our last, is, or lately has been, rusticating at the house of Dr. Jackson, of Cresson. Since his arrival, what little sympathy was manifested for him in this neighborhood has entirely given way to feelings of deep disgust. There is nothing whatever the matter with him. He is bale and hearty, has a good appetite, and talks politics with all the bitter vindictiveness that a Yankee fanatic can ommand.

The Colonel told him frankly that he did not succeed very well; that his meeting was composed of democrats and Fillmore men; that very few Fremont men were present, in consequence of there being but few in the place.

This frank avowal irritated the gentleman with the soft brain, and he poured forth a perfect torrent of invectives against Pennsylvanians. While emptying his vials of black-republican wrath, he declared that the whigs and democrats of Pennsylvania were white slaves, and that he should glory in seeing them brought to the block and disposed of under the auctioneer's hammer.

This unqualified assertion of the Yankee fanatic did not fail to arouse the indignation of the Pennsylvanians, and Colonel Hofins made some tart reply, which only aggravated the martyr the more, and he showered abuse of the following clauses of the act entitled "An act making appropriations for certain civil expenses of the government for the year ending the thirtieth of June, eighteen hundred and fifty-siz, to wit:

EXPENSIVE ANIMALS.—An exchange paper says:

"Among the 'passengers' by the Hudson river railroad on Saturday were two-Cashmere goats bound for Tennesee. The Albany Times says they were purchased in South Carolina at $2,600, and have been exhibited in New York. Admitting the two animals to weigh sixty pounds, for they are diminutive creatures, they would cost about forty-four dollars per pound, which is a rather extrawagant price, almost equal to what Esau paid on one occasion for a mess of pottage, made from similar meat. As the wool of these goats, however, sells for eight dollars per pound, the specimens above referred to may prove a good investment."
